

The Alliant Educational Foundation

Is helping shape the future of those giving back to our local communities

The Alliant Educational Foundation was founded in 2015 as a 501(c)3 non-profit organization to support student success by providing resources that increase their capacity to meet the needs of diverse populations in underserved communities.

Fundamentally, the foundation is all about education—providing support for students who are pursuing advanced professional degrees in the helping professions.

Primarily earning their masters and doctoral degrees in the fields of education, psychology, law, forensics and business, many of these students need scholarship support to pursue their dreams of giving back to their local communities.

In addition to student support, we also support faculty, as well as investing in broader community impact, in part through our association with Alliant International University.

Our future educators, lawyers, psychologists, and business leaders.

TODAY, these students are pursuing their advanced degrees in the helping professions. TOMORROW, they'll be amongst those we trust to help improve our communities—across your community, the State of California, and around the world!

The foundation is governed by a 13-member, all-volunteer board of directors and a small, dedicated staff of three who manage operations. Our office is located on the San Diego campus of Alliant, but our footprint includes support for all six California campuses.

Our current commitments include:

- Supporting Alliant students in our first three years with over $5M in scholarships spanning across all six California campuses and each school within Alliant
- Providing fiscal oversight for faculty grants and contracts to increase outside investments in research and training
- Leveraging Alliant's students and faculty to make a larger community impact in the areas of education (by addressing the shortage of teachers in underserved communities) and psychology (through a new mental health consortium launching soon)
